

DENVER
PUBLIC
SCHOOLS

Early Education
Joyful Learning from the Start

8/26/21

Dear Sandra Todd Williams Academy Staff and Community,

It is my pleasure to announce that Mr. Donald Reynolds has been selected as the school's principal. Mr. Reynolds is a product of Denver Public Schools who has leveraged his talents, skills, and abilities toward ensuring that students are able to actualize their greatest capacity.

Mr. Reynolds holds an engineering degree, MBA, and J.D. Each, of which, has grounded his unique instructional approach and strengthened his commitment to our youngest learners through understanding the impact of strong beginnings. Further, he is a veteran DPS team member who has served as a senior team lead, dean, assistant principal and 2015-2016 DPS Teacher of the Year.

Aside from these accolades, Donald's passion for working with students is his most notable attribute. His tenure in the field has resulted in the development of data driven instructional strategies specific to students achieving optimal developmental outcomes. Mr. Reynolds values collaboration, innovation, and fostering sustainable relationships within the school community. Lastly, his overarching vision duly aligns with the DPS mission of "providing all students the opportunity to achieve knowledge and skills necessary to become contributing citizens in our diverse society."

I look forward to being a part of the incredible opportunities Mr. Reynolds will create for the school in collaboration with the school's staff and the community. Again, please join me in congratulating Mr. Reynolds and celebrating a new journey for the school under his leadership.

Respectfully,

Dr. Bridgitt Mitchell, Director
Early Education Department
Denver Public Schools